

African Penguins

By Alexa

Body

African Penguins are a type of bird. When they are standing up they are one to two feet tall. African Penguins use their flippers to swim under water.

Habitat

African Penguins live on the islands off the southern African coast. African Penguins live in burrows near bushes and rocks.

Food

African Penguins eat fish and krill.
African Penguins dive into the water to find food. They catch food with their beaks.

Life cycles

Female African Penguins lay two eggs. The parents keep the eggs warm. The chicks hatch in about forty days.

Fun Facts

African Penguins grunt like donkeys.
African Penguins are also called black footed Penguins. They live in groups called colonies.

